'FRAGRANT' WATERS' MURMUR That this Christmas and New Year Season in Hongkeng is getting to a festive pitch which almost justifies the introduction of a series of sumptuary laws.

That it would be a new sensation to find oneself faced at dinner by an ordinance which positively restricted the operation of dining to two courses only, and imposed a penalty upon both host and guest for anything exceeding that fare.

That I have often heard old residents emphotically assert that we all cat and drink far too much in this semi-tropical climate. and the remark is made by other than medical men.

That it is not generally known, however, than an Act of Parliament exists, which has never been repealed (and which is supposed still to be in force here) whereby a heavy penalty may be enforced upon any one giving or taking a dinner of a seriously sumptuous nature.

That, apart from this possible or impossible novelty in legislation, it would be a good thing if the dinner of three or four hours' duration were altogether abolished, and the sederunt at table were limited to at the most an hour and a half.

That while I recommend this reform to the careful consideration of the Medical Faculty, it might be worth while to inquire at the same time whother the feativities which in Hongkong are crushed and growded into three months could not be apread over a longer space of time.

That even young residents, who are not conclusion the social pace is too fast, and little too 'warm.'

That a consideration of the frailties of human nature will have to lead to the their months' foasting and feteing being extended over the cooler half of the year, from October to March inclusive.

> London, December 3. - Anarchy to-day bade defiance to the law, while the authorities made an imposing display of police. It had been known for some time that aparchists intended to hold a meeting in Trafalgar square. Henry Asqualli, Home Secretary of State, ordered Sir Edward Bradford. Chief Commissioner of Police, to prerent the meeting. The anarchists thereupon mnounced their intention to hold the meeting in spite of the authorities.

Anarohists had mon several previous Sunlays held meetings in Trafalgar Equare, and had been tolerated by the authorities on the ground that they were not daugerous and the the mere fact of supdangerous when brought to public notice by any truth in the rumours originating in to the fact that the averahists afas called Italy that French troops are being massed meeting in Trafalgar square openly air las on the French Alpine frontier. The result was that the Home Secretary did not dore to allow any further rops to the reds of London, and the police this afternoon mustered a strong force about Trafalgar squars, while reserves were stationed in Regent street, Waterloo place, Charing Cross road, Northumberland avenue and on the embankment.

The aparchists began to muster at o'clock. The display of force caused many thousands to flock to the neighborhood. Male and female anarchists mixed among the people assembled about the square, and began hawking anarchist literature, which found a ready sale among the people. Copies of the Commonweal, the organ of the anarchists of London, were freely purchased. Ita frontispiece has an illustration of Labor as Samson pulling down the pillers of the church and stute. It also contained an article headed 'bombs,' in which the writer welcomed the Barcelous, bomb outrage as' a great and good act.' Anarchist and socialist manifestoes were also distributed broadcast among the crowds. Gradually the number of socialists and anarohists was so augmented that they gained courage enough to push toward the centre of the square. UNITED SERVICE COLLEGE,

WESTWARD HO. Mr Rudyard Kipling has contributed to the Boston Youth's Companion an interesting srticle on the United Service College at Westward Ho, which is so well known to Angle-Indiane. We give an extract or

Besides, scholars are apt, all their lives, to judge from one point of view only, and, by the time that an Army officer has knocked about the world for a few years, he comes to look at men

'There was a boy in the Canada Moun ed Police, I think, who straubled into a fortune-he was the only one of us who ever did-and as he had never drawn more than seven shillings a day, he very properly wrote to the Head from his wilds and explained his trouble, proposing that the Head should look after all his wealth tall he came back. The Head was worth trusting -he saved a boy's life from diphtheria once at much greater risk than being shot; at, and nobody knew anything about it till years afterwards. But I come back to the school that he made and put his mark The boys said that those will whom Choltenham could do nothing, whom Sherborne found too taugh, and whom even Marlborough had pointely asked to go had been sent to the school at the begu ning of things and turned into men. All our men, said the school, 'go into the Army, and there hasn't been a war for ten years where some of our fellows haven't played up. There are ninety of us in the Service now. There are over 200 now. The school motto was ' Foar God, Honour the King;' and so the men she made went out to Boerland and Zululand, and India and Burms, and Oyprus and Hungkong, and lived or died as gentlemen and off-and afterward we trusted him more.

MORE LIKELY TO BREAK DOWN. Who hasn't heard of the good old Deucon in America, and his idea of how a chaise should be built so as to run for ever without repairs! I dare say, we all have, yet he hasn't quite goue state yet. He said, you remember, that the reason chaises broke down and didn't wear out was that there was always a weakest spot somewhere about them. Now, said the Deucon, the way to fix it is to make that spot as strong as the rest. Then the vehicle might wear out, but couldn't break down. He built a chaise on that principle; it never broke down; it ron a hundred years exactly, and then one day it went to pieces all at once; all at once and nothing first, just as bubbles do when they barst. Its time was come; for, as the man says who once told the story in rhyme, " little of all we value here, wakes on the morn of its hundredth year, without both feeling and looking queer," Yes, and long before that time most of as begin to look and feel queer. And it's all on account of that weak spot, too. If it wasn't for that we should be like the Deacon's chaise-we should run till we wear out. As it is we break down on the road, often beyond repair. But not Otherwise a certain man could never have used these words. " I feel as smart to-day as I did thirty years ago." His story, in his own words, rons this way :-

"From my youth I was never properly well. I had a bad taste in the mouth and pain after eating. Often I couldn't touch food when it was set before me. I felt a grawing at the stouach and a tightness at the chest and sides. Sometimes my lowels were so swollen I had to loose my clothes. I had violent pains in my head for days together. This continued for years and years. About thirty years ago I began to have rhenmatic pains all over me, especially in the back and lags, I got so bad I couldn't walk without a stick, and on my way to and from my work I had to sit down and rest. "I got no proper sleep at night owing to the pain. Day nor night, I never know what it was to be free from pain. As time went by I became quite crippled. Doctor after doctor gave me medicines and rubbing bottles, but none of the things I tried did any good. The doctors said my ailment was rheumatism and lumbage and made light of it, but it was serious enough to me. For thirty years I suffered dreadfally. My wife used to rub me before the fire night efter night and apply flauncle, relieving me only for the time. I gave up all hope of ever being well Freight, apply to again, when in November, 1887, I read of the good Mother Spigel's Syrup had done in so many cases. THE CHINA REVIEW. PUBLISHED BI-MONTHLY.

HIS Review, which was intended to meet the wants of many students of Chinese caused by the discontinuance of Notes and Queries on China and Japan, has reached its Twenty-first Volume. The Review discusses those topics which are uppermost in the minds of students of the 'Far East' and about which every intelligent person connected with China or Japan is desirous of acquiring trustworthy information. It mcludes many interesting Notes and original Papers on the Arts, Sciences, Ethnology, Folklow, Geography, History, Literature, Mythology, Natural History, Antiquities, and Social Manners and Customs, etc., etc., of Chica, Japan, Mongolia, Tibet, and the Far East generally. Recently a new doparture has been taken, and the Review now gives papers on Trade, Commerce, and Descriptive notes of Travel by well-known writers. It was thought that by extending the scope of the Review in this direction, the Magazino would be made more generally

The Review department received special attention, and ondeavours are made to present a careful and concise record of Literature on China etc., and to give critiques embodying santches of the Most recent works on such topics. Authors and Publishers are requested to forward works to Editor, Uhina Review, care of China Mail Office.

The Notes and Queries are still continued and form an important means of obtaining from and diffusing among students knowledge on obtenre points. The Correspondents' column also affords tarther and greater facilities for the inter-change of views and discussion of various 1894.

Original contributions in Chinese, Latin, or any of the Modern Languages are reserved. The papers are contributed by the members of the various Consular, the Imperial Customs, and Hangkong Services, and also by the Missionary bodies amongst whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship regular contributors are Drs. Chalmers, Eital, Bretschneider, and Hirth, Professor Legge, and Messra Balfour, Watters, Stant. indicative of sound scholarship and thorough i mastery of their subject.

Meteorologists will find an interesting and valuable contribution by Dr. Fritsche, "the Amount of Precipitation (Rain and Snow) of Peking," showing the results of observations made at the Imperial Russiat Observatory at Peking, from 1841 to 1880. "Notes on the Dutch Occupation of Formoza," by Mr. Geo. Phillips, contains some interesting information, although much of it is second-hand. The Notices of New Books include a most generous and appreciative review of " The Divine Classic of Nan-Hua," and the Notes and Queries are as usual very interesting. -North-China

Daily News.

A substantial and reliable Review which all students of China and the Chinese would do well to patronise. '-Chrysinthemum. 'The November-December number of the China Review contains less variety than usual, but the few articles are very interesting. The opening paper by Mr Herbert A. Giles on "The New Testament in Chinese" treats of aquestion that must necessaily be of great importance in the eyes of all missionaries. . . . Mr E. H. Parker's "Short Journeys in Szechuen" are continued, and a goodly instalment of these travels in the interior of China is giron. Mr. F. H. Balfour contributes a paper of some length entitled "The Emperor Cheng, lounder of the Chinese Empice," which will be read with genuine interest by students of Chinese history. A few short notices of New Books and a number of Notes and Queries, one of which

On Chinese Oaths in Western Borneo and Java" might appropriately have been placed under a separate heading, complete the number.'-H.K. Daily Frest. Trubner's Oriental Record contains the following notice of the Clina Review :-The present publication, judging by the number now before us, is intended to occupy a position, as regards China and the neighbouring countries, some what similar to that which has been filled in India by the Calcutta Review. The great degree of attention that has been bestowed of late years upon the investigation of Chinese literature. satiquities, and social developments, to say pothing of linguistic studies, has led to the accumulation of important stores of information, rendering some such channel of publicity as is now provided extremely desirable; and contributions of much interest may fairly be looked or from the members of the foreign consular services, the Chinese Custome' corps, and the missionary body, among whom a high degree of Chinese scholarship is now assidyously cultivated.

C. Bowra. is not only historically valuable, but is also distingulahed by its literary grace. Reside notices of new books relating to China and the East, which will be a useful feature of the Review, if carried out with punctuality by and detail, we are glad to notice that 'Notes' and 'Queries' are destined to find a place in its pages also. It is to be hoped that this opening for contributions on Chinese subjects may evoke a similar Geo.
